LIVING WITH A CALL TO MINISTRY

We will gather as Friends called to ministry within the Religious Society of Friends, seeking to encourage each other in worship and conversation. We expect that themes may arise, such as:

- What nourishes your soul and your ministry?
- How does your relationship with your meeting shape or uphold your service?
- What questions, doubts, or opportunities are on your heart?
- What are current or urgent needs in your meeting or community? Is more called for from you in response?

This will be a gathering of fellow-workers seeking to grow in obedience and diligence under our Lord's guidance.

Registrations should include a letter of support, which briefly describes the participant's concern/ministry and relationship to a spiritual community. Letters will preferably be from one of the following: meeting, meeting clerk, Ministry & Counsel, support committee, Young Adult Friends/Young Friends group, or spiritual friend.

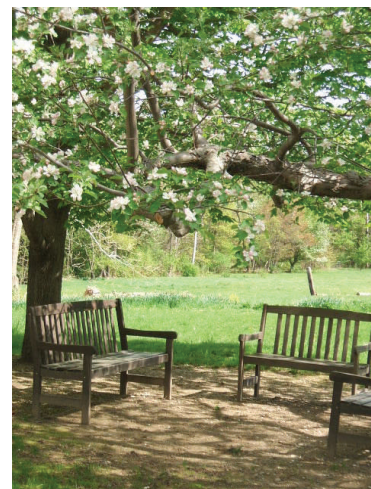

This workshop will run concurrently with "Nurturing the Spiritual Life of the Meeting: Rediscovering Eldering." There will be opportunity for exchanges between the two groups.

Noah Baker Merrill, a member of Putney (VT) Meeting, carries a Concern for the integration of worship and witness.

Brian Drayton, author of On Living with a Concern for Gospel Ministry, is a member of Weare (NH) Meeting and a recorded minister.

Debbie Humphries, a member of Hartford Monthly Meeting, travels in the ministry with a concern for deepening Quaker worship and practice.

Lucy Marsh, a shiatsu practitioner, grew up in Iowa Friends Yearly Meeting (Conservative) and is now part of Putney (VT) Meeting.
